STOP-RACISM

A JOURNEY TOWARDS INTERCULTURAL
UNDERSTANDING

Development of Online Training Programme and Game

Since our last newsletter, we've been working hard to develop an online training programme to help young people understand and confront racism engagingly. Additionally, we've created a game that supports learning.

We are now preparing to test the programme and the game with young people, an important step to ensure the material is effective and relevant.

We are seeking young people to help us test our newly developed online training programme and game. Your feedback will play a crucial role in shaping the final version, ensuring it's both engaging and effective in tackling racism.

By participating, you'll get the chance to try out the materials before anyone else, have your say in how they can be improved, and contribute to a project that's making a difference!

If you're interested, sign up now and be a part of the change!

Introducing the STOP RACISM Toolkit

We are excited to share our upcoming STOP RACISM Toolkit, designed to support young educators and key stakeholders in fostering critical thinking and raising awareness about racism. This toolkit offers a range of practical resources, including:

- A guide on using gamification to teach anti-racist principles
- Motivational techniques and essential knowledge for learners
- Ready-to-use forms and templates for easy implementation
- Policy recommendations to support the project's goals and ensure resource transferability
- Classroom-friendly resources to promote effective anti-racism education

As part of Work Package 5, we will also create a policy brief template, helping to draft briefs for diverse audiences, from local to European stakeholders. The toolkit will provide valuable tools to promote the STOP RACISM project's objectives and foster European unity.

All findings and resources will be made available online, and multiplier events will help disseminate the results, seeking valuable feedback to improve and refine the toolkit.
